Vice-Chancellor Speaks at Mac

Dr. Cyril James Principal, congratulated the prize-winners, and commented that there were more of them than in previous years, also, that enrolment had increased both at Macdonald and McGill.

He then ventured to ask two questions. Why the hunger for a higher education? What should be done about it besides erecting new buildings and colleges?

"Five years ago," he said, "the present enrollment was thought to be unbelievable, but it has come about. It will be the same again, as the rate will increase in the years to come. The causes are: a higher birth rate (which is of little significance in itself), and that there are a larger percentage of pupils completing High School and continuing their education in college. There is a desire and need for a university education, and it is encouraged by parents, teachers, corporations, and governments."

Reasons put forth by Dr. James were:

- 1) The technological revolution consisting of a change of scientific environment. More, and faster changes will take place in the future, for this is only the beginning. There is a desire to play an active part in this effort, and it, of course, requires a higher education.
- 2) National defence.
- 3) The revolutionary change of political structure in society. As he cited this as being the most important reason of the three, Dr. James continued to expound upon it.

"We need people studying the language of others, their social and economic patterns. We need people studying the social and economic patterns and policies of our own country. There is a challenge, clear and definite."

Mr. Heward Grafftey, Progressive Conservative, M.P. for Brome-Missisquoi, spoke before an enthusiastic audience of one hundred or more people at Sunday's meeting of the International Students' Organization.

FIGHTING WORDS

On Tuesday night, October 31st., there will be a debate between two male members of the staff (Dr. McDonald and one other) and two female members (Mrs. Wood and Miss Raymond) on the resolution that "women have contributed (more than men) and will contribute more than men to the world." This resolution offers plenty of scope for an excellent debate, and we expect to see large numbers of people in the Assembly Hall to view the fireworks. The time: 8:00 p.m. The place: Assembly Hall. The date: Tuesday, October 31.

The lounge of Laird Hall was filled to capacity for the regular bi-monthly meeting of one of the most popular campus organizations. The I.S.O. was recognizing United Nations Day by presenting a special program with a guest speaker and a recently released U.N. film.

Mr. Grafftey said, that the creation of a world police authority entrusted with the keeping of the peace is a "future must."

"If we believe that there is more good than bad in the world, so too must we believe in the future strength and existence of the United Nations."

Mr. Grafftey, a representative of the Canadian U.N. delegation three years ago, claimed that few countries have supported or worked harder for the principles of the world body than Canada. Mr. Grafftey said that he could not agree with the idea that it is impossible to love one's own country and the world at the same time. In other words, he explained, a healthy nationalism must certainly be compatible with international responsibility. If civilization is to survive, Mr. Grafftey stated, then an international police force must be set up.

As the I.S.O. is almost as cosmopolitan as the U.N. itself, this type of meeting had a great appeal for all members.

The International Students' Organization was inaugurated five years ago by a group of Macdonald College students who outlined their purpose as follows: "The principle aim of the International Students' Organization is to create better understanding among all students at Macdonald and consequently to facilitate the exchange of ideas between the different cultures and nationalities represented here. Campus life has a tendency to become narrow and self-centered, and it is easy to forget the world beyond the College gates. The I.S.O. affords all of us the opportunity to occasionally divert our attention from classroom and local campus affairs to those which should concern us all as citizens not only of one nation but of the world."

This year's organization is continuing to operate in the same spirit as the first one of 1957. Meetings are held twice a month, providing speakers, panels, films, displays, and above all a chance for all nationalities to come to know and understand one another.

The executive — Mr. Salim Kahn, President, Miss Susan Hitchcock, Vice-President, Mr. Shiv Chopra, Secretary-Treasurer — and the members cordially invite you to attend the next meeting of the I.S.O. to be held on November 5th. The I.S.O. welcomes all students and staff members, Canadian as well as foreign, hoping that they will recognize the value to each of such an association with the others.

- 1) Greater understanding and comprehension.
- 2) We need people who think and study.

Quote, "It is more important to study than talk. Thinking creates." Unquote.

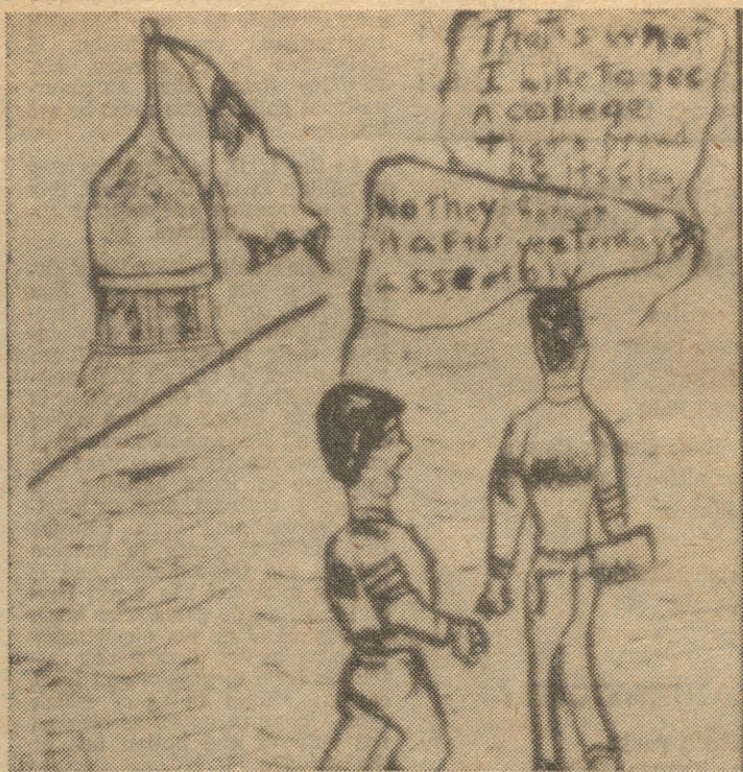

We are going to be saved by the thinking men and women, who understand, and build constructively. He closed by saying, "Distinguish yourselves in the next fifty years in the role that you play, in that regard."

EDITORIALS COMMENTS

Dr. F.C. James, Principal of McGill University, said in Tuesday's Annual Assembly that there has been a great change in education today. He said that people now want to finish high school and that they want to go to college. This is, of course, a debatable point. I believe the majority of people do not want to finish high school; they have to finish it. By the same token, they do not want to go to college; they have to. Most people realise that, in order to get almost any job today, they have to produce a piece of paper which says High School Leaving Certificate on it: in order to get employment which has a future, they must show another scrap of paper signifying that they have a degree of some sort. These people enter college with the degree as their sole aim in life, therefore, the prime purpose of college is defeated. The main aim of any educational institution worth its salt is to broaden the individual's outlook on life in general and this cannot be accomplished simply by reading the prescribed text books.

Dr. James also said that there is a need for greater comprehension and understanding in the world as it now stands. This is undoubtedly true; but this comprehension and understanding cannot be a by-product of today's educational set-up. People going to college simply to get their degree enter college with a closed mind. Nothing is allowed to distract them from their pursuit of this goal. They register and graduate with the same views on the world around them. In effect, they are being forced to go to college, and anyone who is being forced to do something does not do it well. There are quite a few people in the world now who have the comprehension and understanding that is necessary but with no degrees, they are being pushed under by the tide of completely worthless people with degrees who are running full tilt through life with dollars signs in their eyes.

In order to be able to use these right people, it will probably be necessary to radically alter the courses that are offered and it might even be found desirable, in some cases, to completely waive the entrance requirements. It's asking a lot, but if we want to achieve this understanding, it must be done. I think that it is worth it — don't you?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,

This is in reply to the many articles written about the poor display of the teachers. We seem to be taking the wrong attitude about the whole situation. It's too bad only 16% of the teachers voted on the last S.T.S. election, but why publicize this? Why not mention the elections for president going on that very day. The Councillor of Education for the Student's Council was elected by acclamation. It's true there should have been more interest and more than one nomination so students could choose the person they wanted to represent them. But why cry over spilled milk? We should be thinking of nominations for the Treasurer of Students' Council, something in the future rather than the past. The constitution was changed last year so that teachers may hold a position. Let's make use of this. Don't worry about the past, let's do something about the future.

Yours truly,

Councillor of Education for Students' Council

Dear Sir,

We feel that a few people on this campus are not aware of the fact that the three tables next to the fireplace in the dining hall are traditionally reserved for the Juniors and Seniors only. Not wanting to mention any names, the main offenders are in the Institute of Education. After being at this college for three or four years, we feel entitled to at least the privilege of a special place to sit in the dining hall, and ask the offenders to please sit at any of the other tables.

Yours sincerely,

WENDY CLIFF,
HUGH SABEN.

Green & Gold

The Green and Gold is a musical review, written, directed, and produced by the students of Macdonald College every year. This is a completely amateur production, and is presented to you with the intention of not only giving pleasure to the people who come to see it, but also of giving pleasure to those who participate in the show. In short, everyone feels satisfied, and they certainly do enjoy it.

The Green and Gold executive, which consists of fourteen members, has already filled thirteen of these positions. However, there is still one position open, that of Music Director, an important position in any production of this kind. This is a responsible job which involves the actual writing (if possible) and arranging of music for the show, and putting the results on stage. Hence it is a job that produces great, personal rewards.

Anyone interested in tackling the job should contact Ian Cubitt (the producer). Just drop a note to the above name at Macdonald College, and he will contact you.

The show itself offers great opportunities for anyone even slightly interested in it. You may not have had any previous experience in dancing, singing, or acting, but this is your big chance to give it a try.

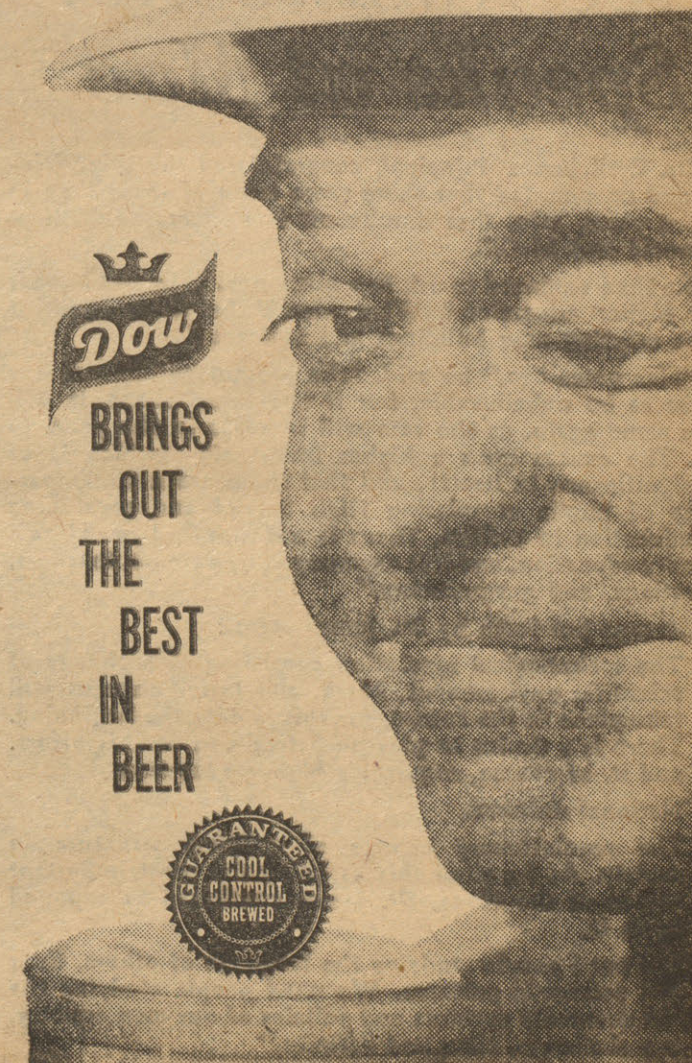

The prime object of the show is to get maximum student participation, as the saying goes, "The more the merrier." However, it is necessary to have auditions, so in order that the director, Peter Pegg does not have too many headaches prior to the show, we require that anyone interested in participating should make an effort to attend the auditions. These will be held for several days, starting November 20th.

The show will be put on February 21st. - 24th., in conjunction with the Macdonald Royal. This will mean that the rehearsals will not interfere with exams or practice teaching. Keep an eye peeled for further information in the Fault-De, and on various posters. AUDITIONS: STARTING NOVEMBER 20th.

PROFESSOR: What is the difference between Mary Jones and the Panama Canal?

STUDENT: The Panama Canal is a busy ditch.

GUARANTEED PLEASURE

HERE AND THERE

By TONY BROSCOMB

I have, at last, been given some plausible reasons why the Post Grads in Education are not participating in the College activities. First and foremost — all but two or three of their number commute. One must admit that it is rather difficult to participate actively on such an unstable basis. Secondly, they are here for only one year, hence, their interest is in a position of short — term stay, in other words, not worth bothering about. Last but not least, they have participated in a number of activities at their former educational institutes, where support and interest have been mediocre, hence, a waste of time to them. Naturally, they are discouraged at this point, and are quite willing to stand back and criticize with no qualms. I support these claims, I understand their position quite well, as the same lack of interest is obvious here at Mac too. Apologies for the sniping last week, IG.

Should Aggies be allowed to donate blood at the coming Blood Clinic. With the little blood in their beerstream, only other Aggies would appreciate a transfusion with such volatile "blood."

According to reliable sources, this column is subject to the Third Degree in English lectures. I am referring in particular to the blasting of the "word", "irregardless". I am innocent. My spelling was revised by a "professor" of English. There were, of course, other errors somewhere, so in the future, (excluding this column) I shall endeavour to write in my best possible grammar.

When window panes start falling out of their frames on their own accord, one cannot feel too safe, especially when the window pane falls directly over the front entrance of the Main Building to the steps below. It did happen by the way, and there is one person who knows what it is like to be under a cascade of glass.

Well, the articles in last week's Failt-Ye brought about some response in the voting. The thing is, approximately half of those who voted were shamed into it. Still, I suppose it was all for the best. There were quite a large number who were voting for the first time, and looking at my card, it was the fourth voting session since college started. Anyway, it's nice to see that the S.T.S. has a permanent president now. There was a rumble that some of the Shops were going to send in a petition of 25 signatures on the point of objecting to a Freshman president. All I can say to those 25 people, and any others who are in the same frame of mind, is that you had plenty of opportunity to nominate someone. It's no use crying over spilt milk.

I have heard a number of girls from Laird Hall contemplating how cold it is going to be this winter, walking over to the Dining Hall and Main Building. They were discussing the advantages of having a tunnel between Laird and the Dining Hall, if the fellas can have one, why can't they? Good question girls. How do you propose to get something done about it?

What gives with the notice boards in the A.V. room? Some of the things going on around here puzzle me. Method in their madness maybe?

The new scoreboard on the football field is a fine improvement in comparison to the old one. It is more legible for one thing, but following this statement, I have a couple of questions to ask. What is the advantage of moving it to the opposite side of the field? Why is it there at all if it is not used? A waste of time and money to me.

Would anyone like to guess just how many bricks have been 'swiped' from behind the library? They make dandy book ends! One word of warning — watch out for the Rent-A-Cop cop.

The president of the Dance Committee is keeping to his promise which he made in his campaign speech last Spring, that is, we have had a dance just about every week. By the way, what is the word on the Rifle Club this year? Anything doing?

Last year, I observed one instance of racial discrimination, and it got my back up. This year, I have had no visual indication of it, but I have heard about discrimination against people who fraternize with those of a different race than us, in this college. All I have to say to the discriminators at the present is that narrowmindedness concerning race and religion is not a thing to handle carelessly. You are a minority, and as such (in this case), step warily. We don't want any more rotten apples in the barrel than we have already. Personally, I loathe you without even knowing who you are.

Say, did Bishops come to play football, or to enter a beer-drinking contest? I have never seen so many guys drinking beer, and so much of it, as I did on Saturday, and they were all from Bishops. The only time that I saw this incident surpassed, when I come to think of it, was at the same time last year.

CLASS PLAY

From last week's mediocre Class play offering, Class three Teachers have jumped in the right direction in producing a Tennessee Williams one act play — "Portrait of a Madonna".

The cast was very competent, particularly Christina Poesze. In the difficult role of Miss Lucretia Collins, a spinster whose sexual and religious frustration has unbalanced her mind, Miss Poesze portrayed with inspiration a pent-up, frenetic woman. The emotional tone of her voice was well-controlled. We were surprised to learn that Miss Poesze has had relatively little acting experience prior to this production. Had the other roles been of equal prominence, however, we feel that other members of the cast would have had a better chance to stand out.

Everyone connected with this venture should be congratulated for their noble effort. We hope to see more plays of this kind.

ROYAL ON THE MOVE

By CHUCK HYMAN

On October 29th, at approximately ten-thirty P.M., the fate of the Macdonald College Royal was decided by the executive. The theme for the '62 College Royal is...

MacDonald on the move... This year's winning entry was submitted by Alan Gaunce, Agr. IV, and, as previously stated, he will be rewarded with a pair of tickets to the Green and Gold 1962.

MACDONALD ON THE MOVE is a theme that will include every possible aspect of the college and its functions. It was with this specific purpose in mind that it was selected. The organizational body of the Royal will now be able to adapt the various displays to the message expressed in the motto for the on coming event. The executive would like to extend their thanks to all those students who submitted entries.

Preparation is well under way, and some of this year's highlights will be the crowning of the Royal Queen, the inter-option booth competition, the Livestock show, Gymnastic and Rhythm displays, Food Demonstrations, a Square Dance competition, Fashion Show, and numerous other displays.

ROYAL FOOTNOTES

The typist this year is Mrs. Leah Pryor... This column has been informed from reliable sources that radio station CFOX, "Lake-shore Family Radio", will be providing us with their services during the day of the Royal...

...It is rumoured that some of the Royal executive will be visiting the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto on November 14th... Next week's column will include an introduction to the members of the Royal executive..

FLASH.

Construction of a pigeon-hole parking centre will commence in the near future to provide adequate parking facilities for the 20,000 automobiles expected at the Royal '62... (2062).

THE SPORTS SCENE

Macdonald Moves in College Track

Macdonald College, long in the track and field doldrums, began to show real life as the young team placed second to CMR in the intercollegiate track meet held on Saturday, October 21st, at St. Johns. They scored 39½ points to beat out Royal Military College for second place.

Freshman Physical Education student Gary MacDonald ran the race of his life to win the 880 yards dash in 2 minutes and 7 seconds. He collapsed from sheer exhaustion after the race, but had enough guts to come back and win his leg of the mile relay. His outstanding performance helped the team run a strong second to CMR, who ended up with a total of 56 points.

Some poor starting on the part of one of the officials caused Dave Greenstein to miss the final in the 100 yards, but made up for it by placing in a tie for first in the 220 yards and a tie for second in the 440 yards. Peter Pottinger, our import from New Zealand, was in the tie for second in the 440 yards with Dave.

Bernard St. Rose also had a bad start in the 100 yards. This coupled with too short a run in the broad jump looked as if he was in for a poor day. He came up with some points however, placing second in the javelin, his throw was good enough to break the old record of 159 feet. Messrs. Slater and Rutherford had only one half hour practice in the pole vault, but managed to place third and fourth respectively. With many of this years teams coming back next year, things look bright for future championships, but it would never have happened had it not been for the efforts of the Mr. Lawrence Lowe, who, in his rookie year as coach, helped the team more than any other person. Every member of the team is indebted to him in this regard. Not to be forgotten, was our transportation to the meet which was handled by the team manager Butch Neil.

If the weaknesses in the 100 yards, mile and three miles are filled, next year shall prove to be the best ever.

RESULTS

Macdonald: first in 880 yards—2 minutes and 7 seconds.
Robertson: fourth in 880 yards.
Greenstein: tied for first in 220 yards; tied for second in 440 yards.
Phillips: third in 120 yards hurdles—18.4 seconds.
Jones: second in high jump.
Baxter: first in javelin—188 feet - record; third in shot put 35'7".
St. Rose: second in javelin—also beat old record.
Slater: third in pole vault.
Rutherford: fourth in pole vault.
Pottinger: tied for second in 440 yards.
Mile relay: MacDonald, Robertson, Pottinger and Greenstein—second.

Rivals Bow to Aggies

The light of victory is beginning to dawn, the Aggies won their first game of the season on Saturday against their most bitter rivals, the Bishops Gators. Mac won the game 13-8, but it was the consensus of opinion that with a few more sustained drives we would have won by a greater score. In the first sequence of plays, Mac marched down the field and scored with Bobby Davidson going over for the major. In the same quarter, Bishops went over the goal line to even the score. At half time, the score stood at 7-7. In the third quarter, the Gators kicked their single and this set the stage for a pass from Sam Portch to Kenny Belmar to end the scoring.

The team as a whole lacks something, but it is hard to discern just what. A football team is twelve individuals each doing a specific job and at this present time not everybody is doing their job one hundred percent. This is attributed to a number of factors. In the first place, there have been injuries to key players such as Dave Popkin and Keith Carrier in the Bishops game. This will force such players as Larry Eldridge, Sam Portch and Bobby Davidson to go both ways. While on the subject of individual players, coach Bob Pugh said, in an interview, that such men as Nick Florian, Kenny Belmar and Sob Simms have been doing two jobs and doing it well. "The fans have been very good," continued coach Pugh, "I hope they keep the good work." So, keep up the good work!

Basketball Future Bright

Here is some news enjoyable to both fans and players alike. Ralph Whims has been named coach of this year's entry. Last year, he was one of the outstanding players for Yvan Coutu and has had good coaching experience. A great deal of interest has been generated this Fall over the potential of the team. Last year's players, such as Kenny Taylor and Jerry Kelly, will add some needed experience to the Aggies. Among some who are expected to try out for the team are: Larry Eldridge, George Koski, Rod McKell and Lloyd Elder. As things stand now, the average height of the team will be well over six feet, which is not a disadvantage in basketball. In all, this well might be the year that the team goes right to the top. The first game of the season will be here on November 18th, when the team will host Sir George Williams University. The first practice will be Monday of next week and coach Whims is hoping for a good turn-out.

Loss to Sir George Under Protest

On Saturday, Macdonald lost to Sir George 3-0, but the game is under protest and there is a good chance that it will be replayed. The game was originally scheduled for Fletchers Field, but when the team arrived at the bus they were informed that the game was being moved to Loyola. Three of the players who were in town at the time and could not make the bus, but were coming later, could not find out where the game was being played and were of little help to the team needless to say. We can only hope that the game will be replayed.

CAMERA CLUB

The Macdonald College Camera Club held a very successful meeting last Tuesday night. Mr. Mario de Brentano, a most interesting speaker, demonstrated some of the techniques used in printing pictures. It was an enthusiastic group that enjoyed the evening very much.

Further demonstrations such as this, and on other subjects pertaining to photography will be held throughout the year. Perhaps a few tours will also be arranged this year.

A short meeting to plan a programme will be held in the Senior Common Room in Brittain Hall at 1:00 p.m. today, Friday, October 27th.

The time, place, and topic of future meeting will be posted on the bulletin boards. Everyone is welcome to come to these meetings. The invitation is extended to the ladies also.

More people, more blood,

More blood, more people,

Does this make sense?

Are you willing?

If you are, on November 1st.,

You can give blood.

Please help in order to Sustain human life.

If there is no blood, there

Is no life.

SPOTLIGHTING Women's Sports

By ANN WILSON

INTER-CLASS SHIELD

This shield is "up for grabs" each year and is awarded to the class which can accumulate the most points during the school year. Points are awarded in each sports event in which the class participates. Performance counts for 50% of the points and participation for the other 50%, so girls even if you don't win, but have most of your girls take part, you will be able to score points for your class.

An example (Tabloid Meet):

	Performance	Participation	Total
FP	50 points	48 points	98 points
2P	49 points	50 points	99 points
3Sc	46 points	49 points	95 points

SWIM MARATHON

The swim marathon is starting on Monday, Oct. 30. (This event is counted for the Inter-class Shield.) Have all members of your class take 20 minutes out of every day next week and get rid of some flab, by exercising in the pool.

The requirements are easy—every length you swim helps.

Checks the W.A.A. board for rules.

MANAGERS

The managers for this sports season have been chosen. They are: tennis, C. Blois; soccer, A. Anderson; cheerleading, J. Kydd; track & field, E. Terrauds; swimming, J. Southward; synchronized swimming, S. Hopkins; volleyball, V. Rose; basketball, C. Blois, S. Butler and N. Paton; hockey, J. Curtis; badminton, C. Machum.

SOCCER

Another loss was added to the soccer team's record last Saturday when Bishops came up with a 2-1 win. Our only goal-getter was Sacha Walker. Good footwork was evident on the part of Tanya Bell, Cathy Algae, Joan Neil and Gail Crombie. Last night, our girls gave it another chance against McGill (scores not available at time of printing). Tomorrow, the team travels to Bishops for a return game. Good luck!

TENNIS

The Inter-collegiate team met its challenge against McGill last week and came up winning the two singles matches and losing the doubles matches. Marilyn Misner and Norma Paton are to be congratulated for their excellent performances which provided Mac's two wins. Macdonald is playing Sir George Williams in two sets of singles and one set of doubles this week.

The Inter-class doubles finalists are: Nancy Peters and Marilyn Misner, Norma Paton and Bonnie Eccles. The singles finalists have not yet been decided.
